What We Do & Why

FP2030's vision, governance, and structure

69 focus countries	All countries welcome
Country support through centralized Secretariat	Country support managed by regional hubs
Data use and tracking towards 120 million additional users	Updated framework monitoring individual, system and environment levels
Knowledge dissemination	Knowledge sharing through interconnected regional hubs
Promoting high-impact, rights and evidence-based practices	Global, regional and country-level advocacy and accountability

Broadened focus

Expanded, values-based partnership

- Preserving accountability functions and knowledge-sharing
- Forging new ties beyond the FP community
- Promoting women’s rights, agency and choice

FP2030 is the only global partnership centered solely on family planning. This singular focus allows us to bring together the widest possible range of partners across disciplines and sectors, while situating family planning at the crossroads of the global health, development, and gender equality agendas.

What does FP2030 do?

Mobilize and drive commitments and momentum for the partnership at all levels, from global to community

Advance country, regional, and global analysis, and use of data and evidence for decision-making and accountability

Advance advocacy at the global, regional, and country levels

Convene global and country stakeholders for collaborative learning, advocacy, and accountability

Forge and leverage partnerships to create synergies and maximize opportunities

Q&A, Discussion

Country Commitments & Engagement

Commitment Making Process

Highlights of FP2030 Commitments

Country Government Commitments

Commitments launched: Benin, Burkina Faso, Ethiopia, Guinea, Kenya, Madagascar, Mali, Mauritania, Niger, Nigeria, Pakistan, Rwanda, Senegal, Tanzania, Togo, and Uganda

Commitments in finalization process: Cameroon, Chad, Cote d'Ivoire, India, Kyrgyz Republic, Mozambique, The Philippines, South Sudan, Vietnam, Zambia, Zimbabwe

Commitments in drafting process: Bangladesh, Burundi, DRC, Ghana, Indonesia, Malawi, Nepal, Sierra Leone, the Gambia, and many others

Currently facilitating outreach with new and potential commitment-making countries, including in LAC.

Highlights of FP2030 Commitments

50+ Commitments from Non-Governmental Actors

Commitments from global-level actors: MSI Reproductive Choices, DKT, International Planned Parenthood Federation, FHI 360, International Confederation of Midwives, and more

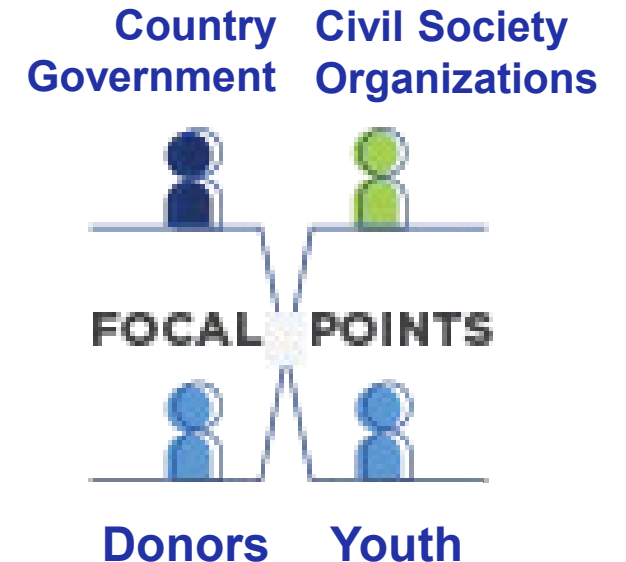

Commitments from country-level CSOs/YLOs: Burundi, DRC, Uganda, Nigeria, Nepal, and LAC

Targeted outreach to donors, the private sector, faith, climate change, gender, disability rights groups.

Commitments amplification through FP2030 and global events.

FP2030 Key Actors – Country Focal Points

- Individuals representing the government (e.g. Ministry of Health), civil society, youth, and donor agencies – designated in commitment-making countries.
- Focal Points as cornerstone of the partnership: Supporting governments for developing/executing a commitment in transparent, inclusive, and accountable ways.
- Focal Points convene partners and stakeholders in the country for consultation and inputs from the community
- CSO and Youth Focal Points provide the perspectives of the diversity of youth and civil society to the best of their ability, they are typically youth-led and local civil society organizations that focus on family planning

Advocacy, Accountability & Civil Society Engagement

Advocacy Priorities

1. Cultivating political will from governments and other stakeholders to support the fulfillment of their FP2030 commitments
2. Promoting the development and adoption of policies that support rights-based family planning
3. Increasing the allocation of domestic resources to family planning and related sectors at the national and sub-national levels
4. Improving the implementation of family planning policies and programs

Mutual Accountability Approach

While governments are responsible for delivering on the commitments they make, they cannot do it alone

Collaborative approaches that depend on trust and goodwill between governments and civil society

FP2030 ensures information on country progress is shared through annual reports and country updates

Implementing partners support the commitments by implementing programs consistent with national priorities

Donors support commitments through financial and technical assistance

Civil society drives accountability by working with governments to monitor progress and advocate for action

Civil Society Engagement

- Global Advocacy: FP2030 collaborates with civil society partners to set the global family planning advocacy agenda and supports promotion of evidence and best practices among global advocates.
- Country-level Advocacy: FP2030 is driving country progress through mobilizing key civil society stakeholders and prioritizing advocacy opportunities to accelerate progress toward country commitments, including resource mobilization and policy change.
- Monitoring and Accountability: FP2030 enhances the role of CSOs in tracking FP2030 commitments and helping countries achieve their FP2020 goals.
- Technical Capacity: FP2020 connects CSOs with technical experts, mobilizes implementing partners, and identifies opportunities for cross-learning and strengthening FP programs.
